Drama and Role Play in the Classroom (middle and upper school)

Enactive techniques promote fluency and enhanced vocabulary, but above all develop student self-confidence. This practical workshop will provide an opportunity to sample a wide range of techniques from simple pair work to whole group drama. It will show how with effective planning and management, teachers can provide stimulating learning opportunities for their students.

John. L Norman, Director of Activate your English, Wolsingham, UK

Moving with "Movers": preparing for YLE

This seminar focuses on some of the livelier classroom practice activities which involve the children and directly help them learn. There will be demonstrations of a mixture of classroom activities suitable for the three Cambridge Young Learner Examination levels (Starters, Movers and Flyers), both practising language skills and promoting confidence. For those teaching up to twelve year olds.

Sandra Fox, teacher trainer, textbook writer and Cambridge examiner

Developing listening skills from Preliminary to First

Do your students fear the listening part of Cambridge Examinations? Come and join us for this seminar where we'll look at different classroom activities, including songs, all designed to develop student listening skills. The seminar will also include ways of adapting Cambridge examination listening tasks to bridge the gap between Preliminary and First.

Jane Hoatson, Cambridge examiner and TKT CLIL teacher trainer for the British Council
